1. Prayer, opening and introductions

2. SRRB Mandate in Environmental Assessments – legal opinion (Lorraine Land and Jessica Iveson)

Lorraine Land and Jessica Iveson (Olthuis Kleer Townshend LLP) reviewed briefing note: "Legal Opinion re: Powers and Jurisdiction of the SRRB"

Discussion

Pat Bobinski- What authority does the SRRB have under the Wildlife Act? How is the Wildlife Act linked to the land claim agreement?

Authority under Wildlife Act- approving plans for wildlife, population numbers, etc. Species at risk- co-management boards can appoint a representative to the committee, species at risk legislation has a mechanism set up to ensure board participation and that the board has power to advice minister.

Lesley Allen- how do we insure that our board is not duplicating other agencies' effort?

Other boards have a more clearly defined role and how they exercise their power. SRRB doesn't have its own legislation (MVRMA) SRRB just has the land claim.

Fisheries act- federal legislation doesn't reference land claim. There are lots of gaps insuring fish habitat protection and nowhere in the act there is a section giving SRRB power

Michael Neyelle what responsibilities do we as board members have to other boards and organizations we are a part of?

Board members are free to hold views different/similar than your nominating organization. At end of the end you need to hold up to the oath you took and have to be impartial, free of bias opinion. You have a duty to be loyal to the core mandate of SRRB. You can consider views of other organizations, your own views, the views of beneficiaries but at end of the day, you need to consider what is best in relation to wildlife and wildlife management.

Michael Neyelle- How do we determine what the public interest is? Not really clear. There are different things that make up public interest
