Tribute to Pat Bobinski

Round table reflecting on Pat's recent death

- Pat was a person who was supportive and respectful in providing guidance. He made a significant contribution to the Board. We will all miss him and think of him in our prayers.
- He was a good listener and provided helpful input to the Board.
- At one meeting, he said that if we want youth to be involved, we have to make them feel wanted. He was very supportive of youth.
- Pat really had a heart, and he really wanted to help people. He did that in a way to ensure that people had opportunities to be comfortable and safe in using guns.
- Pat was supportive of the new approach being defined by the Board at its July strategic planning session, in particular the focus on building youth leadership and working collaboratively with ʔehdzo Got'ıne (he seconded the motion to invite ʔehdzo Got'ıne Presidents or designates to serve as Special Advisors to the board).

Facebook post in tribute to Pat Bobinski

With great sadness we pay tribute to Pat Bobinski on the occasion of his sudden death last week at the age of 77. Himself a passionate hunter, fisher, trapper, outfitter and general outdoorsman, Pat was known as a strong promoter of indigenous youth training in outdoor sports and hunting. Pat was always so busy with bush life, coaching, and justice of the peace work (until he was forced to retire at the age of 75) that it was hard to keep track of him - and he didn't plan to slow down any time soon. As he put it in an interview with News/North in 2010, "The minute you start to slow down physically, psychologically you're going to start to slow down also. I really believe in a healthy body, healthy mind."

Appointed as a member of the ʔehdzo Got'ıne Gots'ę Nákedı (Sahtú Renewable Resources Board) in 2008 and reappointed in 2014, he became most active recently with the Board's increasing focus on youth-centred land guardian training.

Pat drove solo all the way from Hay River to Dəooha (Bennett Field) for the February 2017 Dene Ts'ı́lı́ School to teach a firearms safety course, and happily camped with the younger men in a wall tent during his week there (and 40 below weather). He quickly established his expectation that the students would achieve high standards in the course. As a result, almost everyone passed the course and expressed great pride in their accomplishments. We learned a lot from Pat that has inspired our approach to programming for the second Dene Ts'ı́lı́ School this fall (August 26-September 10).

Pat was planning to expand his offerings this fall to include shooting skills training with air guns – before rushing off to coach for a national biathlon competition.

Here's hoping that our upcoming and future school programs will live up to his ambitions for training new generations of healthy and skilled indigenous youth land guardians.

Shúhta Goʒepé Planning Workshop Debrief

Presentation by Frederick Andrew, Michael Neyelle, and Deborah Simmons

- This is the third major meeting to discuss shúhta goʒepé conservation since 2014.
- The Australian facilitator of the workshop, Stuart Cowell was very helpful in guiding us through the planning process; he was also helping to train a leadership in conservation planning.
- Máhsi to the government people, the young people, Rhea McDonald from the Norman Wells Renewable Resources Council, and the Ross River Dena participants. It was impressive how dedicated everyone was at the camp.
- Note that the Canol cleanup is underway; also notable is that Ross River Dena Council is a co-owner of Dechenla Lodge.
- A key issue is damage to the landscape by All-Terrain Vehicles; one option is to make the area a “traditional hunting area.”
- Key highlights from the workshop included contributions from the Youth Caucus and development of a leadership team; we also had positive contributions from Norman Wells, Ross River.
- Options for taking immediate measures.
- Next steps in the collaborative planning process, toward approval by the SRRB.

“Big Guy” (Grizzly Bear) Research Update

- Unfortunately project lead Robert Mulders (ENR) did not make it to the Shúhta Goʒepé workshop due to miscommunication.
- An impromptu meeting of available people took place following the workshop at Mile 222 on August 2. Key points:
  - Ross River Dena have not been consulted about the research approach; a learning from this is that it may be appropriate for the Tulít'a ʔehdzo Got'ı́ne to consider an agreement to coordinate with Ross River Dena and request that

- they be included as a referral body on research license and permit applications in the area of overlapping interest in the Mackenzie Mountains.
- Tulit'a ʔehdzo Got'ine have requested that a traditional knowledge study be conducted in conjunction with the scientific study. Note that the big guy should not be discussed in the winter.
- Concerns have been expressed by Dechenla Lodge and at least one outfitter about the locations of some baited posts and the bait storage container, which may be a danger to people in the area.
- ENR will be reviewing this pilot year of the project in terms of cost and results.

Workplan and Budget for 2017-2027

Presentation by Deborah Simmons

- The workplan includes the vision, approach and principles outlined by the Board at its July 3-7 strategic planning meeting; otherwise the workplan is generally the same as the one already approved by the Board for 2017-2018 – just at a higher level for the ten year scope.
- The budget is expanded to account for the new ten year allocation and includes two additional professional staff, an On the Land Coordinator and Community Conservation Planner, as well as a buddy system for professional staff to work with community interns.
- ʔehdzo Got'ine have been allocated double their funding, and the Board staff will focus on providing capacity support.
- Although the SRRB's Core funding does not allow for direct participation by ʔehdzo Got'ine and communities, the Board is now able to show through its audited financial statement that project and supplemental funding is being used along with professional funding expenditures to demonstrate that the Board is benefitting from a balance of community and science-based inputs.
